ELKS ICE CARNIVAL A SPLENDID SUCCESS

Surpassing all expectations of even the most enthusiastic supporter, the Ice Carnival proved to be a gratifying success financially from an artistic point, a most commendable achievement, and as a community effort, very satisfactory.

The weather was ideal, cold enough for good ice, yet not too extreme for the comfort of the spectators, who were there in large numbers.

The arrangements for the evening made by a committee of the Elks, composed of Messrs Lundie, P. Anderson, Gatenby, Melvin, Mercer, Cott and Dunn, were well planned.

This scribbler would suggest that in future similar gatherings, the Master of Ceremonies require a large number of join in the singing of O Canada, with the playing by the band. With as large a gathering and as large a number of male voices, the chorus would have made the wailing ring, and encourage to a certain extent, a spirit of enthusiasm for our country in the minds of the younger members who sung with the volume that could have been produced by this large gathering.

Two or three boys' souls tried to make their voices heard, and the strain taken up by the assembled multitude, but not being gifted with the voice of a Homer, their feeble song was lost, like the violet, "born to blush unseen, and waste its breath on the desert air."

The costumes—this was a very marked case of where it was necessary to see to it to appear to the judges began to qualify when they saw the task set before them. However, the various groupings, similar to the task were given, and it is gratifying to know that the decision of the judges met with general approval.

Part over, then followed the procession of the Carnival Queen, Miss Mary Bellinger, preceded by her lady in waiting, Miss Edith Gray, followed by her charming little pages, Master Billy Morgan and John French, and the three princesses, Miss Jean McGowan, Miss Gladys Fossenden and Miss Alice Garrett. This procession made an exceedingly pretty spectacle.

The costumes of the Queen, with her royal robes, an exquisite Indian shawl in scarlet and gold, loaned by Mrs. Gatenby, her crown, studded with "diamonds, rubies and sapphires" made a very pretty effect, both in the procession and as she ascended the throne.

The costumes of the other young ladies with the robes of purple and gold and hats with the very effective plumes, and the two little pages in their charming little suits of scarlet, deep white collars and puffed cuffs, made a very striking and picturesque ensemble.

Credit for these very effective costumes is due Mrs. Gladys Morgan, Mrs. Geo. Berry, Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. J. A. French.

Leading the Queen and her attendants in the procession to the throne, was the band, the Boy Scouts forming a body-guard.

The address of loyal submission to the queen was read by Mr. Geo. H. Jones. The Queen, Miss Mary Bellinger, replying with her grateful thanks to her loyal subjects.

The prizes for winners in winter games were then presented by the Queen.

The judges of the best costume in the various groups were: Mr. Geo. H. Jones representing the Elks, Mr. S. H. Crowther representing the Legion, Mrs. A. A. Moore representing the

It was a genuinely worthwhile event, and could, with benefit, be made an annual affair.

CAMROSE ENDS TROUBLE WITH WINTER ROADS

CAMROSE, Alta.—The problem of keeping open winter roads leading into the town of Camrose, appears to have been solved. The report of J. V. Kerr, chairman of the Good Roads committee of the Camrose board of trade for the past year, presented at the annual meeting of that organization, outlined the method by which success in maintaining winter roads had been attained.

Business men and farmers both agree as to the desirability of keeping roads open for automobile traffic during the period when the snow lies upon the ground. But conditions are such that the undertaking presents several difficulties. Mechanical snow removal equipment of different types is being offered by these were found to be either inadequate to do the work or too costly for the average municipality. After consideration had been given to several types of snow plows, it was decided to have a plow built locally according to determined specifications. The plow so built had a 16-foot blade and was propelled by a 15-hp tractor. The total cost of the plow was less than $150.00.

At the annual meeting of the board of trade it was determined that a Camrose good roads association should be organized and the work heretofore undertaken by the good roads committee of the board of trade will be taken over by the new organization as soon as it is fully formed in a short time.

Electric Trade Sees New Field In Agriculture

NEW YORK.—Farm machinery and electric equipment manufacturers are planning to co-operate in standardizing the production of electrical farm machinery when the majority of farms throughout the United States will be electrified, according to Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric Company.

The electrification of the farms will mean the installation of electric refrigeration plants, either large ones, co-operatively owned by the farmers in one section or smaller ones on the farms, so that the farmer can keep his fruits and produce, and control his markets," Mr. Young said.

"If the farmer had means of controlling the marketing of his products and was assured that he could get to his market at all times, the rubbish waste and inefficiency now going on would be eliminated and the agricultural industry would become stabilized," Electrification of the farms, with its consequent advantage, not only from a mechanical standpoint, but in opening new cultural and educational opportunities to the rural residents, will probably develop as the result of electric illumination of highways, he said. The several electric companies are already discussing all phases of the problem of lighting stage highways, he said, and electric power companies are considering the matter.

Woman M.P. Debates With Gen. Macbrien

MONTREAL.—A debate on the subject, "Military Training in Schools and Colleges: Is it Desirable?" took place here between Major-General J. H. Macbrien, former Chief of Staff of the Department of National Defense, and Miss Agnes Macphail, M.P.

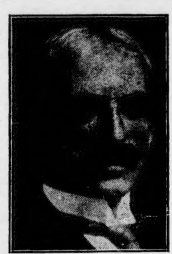

Major-General Macbrien, who took the affirmative, said that, since conditions did not warrant the assumption of Canada that was to give way to the nation, and that since the law of Canada required that all men from 18 to 45 serve in defense of their country in case of need, military training in schools and colleges was economical for both man and country.

He also dwelt upon the physical, mental and moral good enjoyed by boys who were subjected to the system of training as it existed in Canada.

In speaking against the resolution, Miss Macphail scored the incitation of military training in schools and colleges because it made the State rather than the child the object of education. On moral ground she objected that preparedness led to war. The discipline of military training led to self control, she said, but to a "blind not to reason why" obedience which destroyed the initiative required for progress. In its place, she advocated the inculcation of a consciousness of world citizenship, which realized that the "brotherhood of man and the federation of world" were its true concern.

He said he would have a movement to "unhobble the coupon clippers" back of the government.

Scottish Earl Sings For 'Canadian Farmers'

EDINBURGH.—Canadian farmers now touring Scotland were honored in a unique fashion at a dinner in Edinburgh at which C. N. S. officials were hosts.

When a Scottish earl, grandson of a former governor general of Canada, sang a famous Scotch ditty to the immense delight of the Canadians. The earl was Lord Elgin, whose illustrious grandeur, was stored by the populace in a historic event in Montreal, and the present earl, recalling the incident, caused great amusement by declaring that among the prized moments at Broomhall were two pieces of granite which had been placed at the governor general.

The elimination contest to determine who will represent Strathmore in the District contest, will be held in the dining room of the Memorial Hall at 8 p.m. on Monday, March 12. All parents and others interested are invited to attend. The following High School pupils will compete for the honor of representing Strathmore: Bertha Gray, Maevie Seales, Margaret Newnam, Alice Garrett, John Garrett and Lewis Harris. There will also be a short programme given by some of the school children. A silver collection will be taken to defray expenses. The judges are Mr. Stockton, the Rev. Winter and the Rev. Wilkinson.

The District contest will take place on Friday, March 23, in the Memorial Hall. In this contest pupils from Dalenacand, Carleton, Langdon and Strathmore will compete. It is hoped to obtain the following judges: Mr. P. G. Buchanan, Inspector of schools; Mr. Jull, Barrister, and Principal of the local, of Strathmore. On the same night will be held the competition for the President's cup in connection with the School Fair. This cup was donated by Mr. Schalle, and may be competed for by any Grade VIII pupil attending any school in this School Fair District. There will also be a short musical programme. Prices of admission have been fixed at fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children.

In connection with the District Contest, the winner receives ten dollars, and the nearest competitor of the opposite sex receives five dollars. The local committee proposes to give the other two pupils five dollars each also, provided the proceeds of the evening permit. Any money left over will be turned over to the principals of the four schools to obtain something for their respective schools.

"MEN'S BETTER WEAR"

EUROPEAN TRIP
LONDON—Canadian farmers who have been touring Britain and the continent of Europe have sailed from Greenock on their homeward voyage. Their experiences have included receptions by the King, the Prince of Wales and the Lord Mayor of London and they have been shown every aspect of agricultural industry as conducted in Britain and Denmark.

Freddie at a dinner given to the party by the Empire Marketing Board in London, Lord Lovat said that British trade is necessary to import bread for more than 20 weeks of the year, beef for 22 weeks, and pork, beef, and butter for nearly six months of the year. The Manchester Chamber of Commerce told the farmers the only complaint that could be made was that Britain did not get enough Canadian dairy produce. In cheese, butter, and bacon Canada was producing what Britain wanted, but the goods were not arriving in sufficient quantities. In the regularity of shipment also there was room for improvement.

One of the products in which Canada has secured an increasing hold of the British market is that of apples. He referring to this E. D. Haliburton (Nova Scotia) said Canada can supply all the apples the British Isles wanted. H. S. Arkell, the Dominion Live-Stock Commissioner (Ottawa), said:

"We know that the British Isles want Canadian bacon, cheese, and eggs, but we know that our problem is to maintain continuity of supply. If this were assured there would be a greater and a steadier demand in this market."

TRIPLET SISTERS IN ENGLAND CELEBRATE SEVENTEETH BIRTHDAY

SPORT NOTES

CANADIANS IN THE CANADIAN MARATHON

BOSTON MARATHON

Whether or not any of the Ontario long distance runners start in the famous Boston Marathon this spring, Canada will be represented by at least five runners. Nova Scotia alone will send a well-conditioned quintet to the Hub on Patriot's Day, April 19. The first five men to finish in The Halifax Herald race last fall are in strict training and will be sent to Boston by public subscription. A trainer already has been engaged, and the team will go to the scene of the grind a week in advance of the date of the race to finish the conditioning process. The team will wear a uniform similar to that of the Canadian Olympic athletes. The men are: Billy Taylor, Sydney Mines; Hector Corkum, Lunenburg; John MacDonald, R.F. Hamilton and Donald Young, Halifax.

WHAT TORONTO OFFERED

GORDON WILSON

When Gordon Wilson, of Brandon, turned down the $4,000 offer for the remainder of the season, or 17 games, with the Toronto Leafs, he turned down about $125 per game. Worried out in minutes, it pays about $5.86 for every 60 seconds on the ice. That looks like a lot of money for chasing a puck around. The jump to the pro ranks is, of course, the one the most men balk at. We know a good number of players who for the sake of an amount of a high price to start with, and who made good, yet are accepting just about half that amount each winter now. The day will never come, of course, but the fans would be mighty interested in what the puck chasers actually do receive.

TRY TO BEAT SPEED RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Two motor cars—one British and one American—are prepared to attempt to break the world's speed record for automobiles. 203.7 miles an hour set last year by Major H. O. D. Seagrave in his British Sunbeam special. The three sprints against time will be part of the 25th annual speed carnival.

The entry of Malcolm Campbell, of London, is designated to combat the wind. This car boasts of 900 horse power British air service motor.

Frank Lockhart, Indianapolis, has entered a small "Black Hawk Special" bullet-shaped, fifteen feet and six inches in length.

Two banks of eight cylinders each comprise its motor, which has no radiator and is cooled by both water and air. It is intended to lower the horsepower. The entire automobile is designed to minimize wind resistance.

BARNARD WILL SCOUT UMPIRES

CHICAGO—Twenty-five years of scouting ballplayers for his Cleveland club has taught E. S. Barnard, now president of the League, how to pick out the best possible material in a staff of umpires. There are few if any ballplayers from the lower league who know that Barnard is not entirely familiar with.

"I'm going to start getting paid the same way on umpires now," President Barnard said. "They are all have to pick now, but before long I know them all. There are certain things essential to a good umpire, and if someone in a Class B league has them, he is just as likely to be brought right up to the American league as anyone else. Just now we are so busy getting moved into our new quarters that I have not had a chance to start on anything, but the first of the month will find us getting settled in our new offices, and I expect to begin picking our umpires first."

At the Florists

An eight-year-old girl entered a florist's office, her hands tightly gripping a four-cent coin. No unknown woman was she, that the elderly German did not recognize her as a customer, as he hesitated himself waiting on customers and sending out orders.

Finally, she summoned up her courage to attract his attention and hesitantly she asked, "Please, sir, how much are roses?"

With perhaps a little curiosity showing in his blue eyes he answered brusquely, "Four and a half dollars, sir, eight and up."

Disney was written upon the girl's face and he hesitated to explain with as much as she asked she might escape, but some thought held her.

CAPT. CAMPBELL SET WORLD SPEED RECORD

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Capt.

Malcolm Campbell of London on Feb. 19 piloted his huge Napier Blue Bird special over the hard packed sands of the beach here at the rate of 206.954 miles an hour, eclipsing by more than three miles an hour the mark established on the same sands last year by Major H. O. D. Seagrave, likewise of England.

The new record for earthbound vehicles came while two others also awaited an opportunity to test their machines against time—Frank Lockhart of Indianapolis, with a Stutz Blackhawk Special, and J. M. Whitt, of Philadelphia, with a 36-cylinder Triplex, which had not yet been accorded official sanction for the try, because of mechanical discrepancies.

Captain Campbell, after his successful dash of a mile up the beach in 1.676 seconds, at a rate of more than 214 miles an hour, and his third run back against a stiff gale, exceeding 195, to make up his official mile, said he had not expected to make a record effort at the record when he started out. But for the fact he took only a four-mile rolling start, said the captain, he would have bettered the record still more.

"My motor had not even begun to pick up good when I crossed the mile stretch," he said. "It was making about 208 miles an hour when I crossed the wire, and did not pick up until I had passed the half mile mark. Just before I finished the mile, I glanced at my instruments and was making 220 miles an hour. Before I could look up I had crossed the final wire and was headed for the salt and dunes."

SHARKEY WILL ONLY MEET TURNEY

ONLY MEET TURNEY OR DEMPSEY

BOSTON, Mass.—Jack Sharkey will box Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, but no one else. It was announced this morning after a six-hour conference between Sharkey's manager, Johnny Buckley, and Jess McMahon, Madison Square Garden match maker, in which an offer to match the Boston sailor with Johnny Rizzo, Cleveland heavy-weight, was definitely turned down.

Buckley told McMahon that his man was through with eliminations of the type of the proposed Rizzo bout, and in addition rejected the possibility of a fight with Jack Delaney. The bout with Rizzo was to have been staged in New York on March 12.

McMahon at once despatched a telegram to Tex Rickard informing him of Sharkey's demand, and planned to have several boxes to the manager's reaction to the news. Rickard is on a vacation in the south.

In a statement to the Associated Press, Buckley declared that Sharkey had been reported anxious to defend his title twice next month. Sharkey was willing to take him on in June, waiting a September date to Dempsey.

"Jack wants to meet Gene first of all, but that is impossible, by no means," he said. "Dempsey in June or any time, but he is not going over the ground he has already covered."

"Twenty-two out of 24 sporting writers gave Sharkey the decision in his 'draw' with Heeney, and there is no question but that Jack is the logical contender."

"Rizzo is out, and so is Jack Delaney. Rizzo beat Delaney, and so did Maloney, while Delaney has refused to box Rizzo at 15 rounds in New York state."

"We don't consider Delaney of any consequence. He has been meeting a lot of has-bens and set-ups, and I wouldn't be surprised to hear that he had been matched to meet his own grandfather."

"Dempsey and Tunney say they are willing to fight. Well Jack Sharkey is willing to accommodate them."

"Sir, could—could I have twenty-seven cents' worth?" and she held out the warm, moist coin.

"Well, well," said the florist, "see, we see, Son—Son. And he led her out through the delirious fragrant aisles of his greenhouse."

A short time after, a radiant happy little maid led the office with eight exquisite cream roses carefully wrapped in oiled paper.

A little later's anniversary gift to a fourteen-year-old brother, the first of her mother had passed away. And in her hand remained two copers.

"The florist brought me such change," the florist said—Christian Science Monitor.

MAKES GOOD PROFIT FROM FLOCK OF SHEEP

YOUNGSTOWN, Ont.—The profits

to be made out of sheep raising in this district as a part of the regular operations of the farm has not yet realized by the majority of farmers to the extent that they might be. We are giving herewith actual figures realized by a man in the Youngstown district who recently added a small flock of sheep to his stock. This man has kept accounts of his record, and the figures speak for themselves.

In 1926, two years ago, he started with 33 sheep, which cost him $1200. The same year he sold $125 worth of wool and $225 worth of lambs. In 1927 he sold $204 worth of wool and $1268 worth of lambs; his total income for the two years being $1652 in cash.

He still has 149 sheep left, or 87 more than he started with. He has received back the original $1200 he made as an investment, and has in addition $352 to the good. He has raised the feed himself and pastured the sheep around his home close to Youngstown. Can anyone tell us a quicker way of making money?

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Editor, Strathmore Standard

The Elks Carnival Committee have heart criticism about the way the Queen Contest (which was such a great success) was run, so perhaps a word about the true facts will bring about a better understanding.

The idea was brought up by Bro. Fred Anderson at our regular meeting and was taken up with enthusiasm by the Brothers present, and the date was fixed for February 27th, and, as the Elks would not meet again until after the Carnival, we chose our Queen that night.

A committee was formed to work the Carnival, and Bro. Melvin, Hughes and Gatenby were deputized to interview the Legion and I.O.O.F., to ask them to run Queens. This was done and an explanation was given those organizations of the way the competition would be run. The Girl Guides asked permission to run a Queen, and this was readily granted.

The tickets were printed without the names of Queens, as the I.O.O.F., Canadian Legion and Girl Guides had to consult their members in the choice of Queens. The tickets were all given out together at a meeting on Friday, the 17th, at which meeting representatives of the I.O.O.F., Legion and Guides were present, so that the four organizations all started the sale of tickets at the same minute.

Although this was purely an Elks Carnival, and all that the other organizations had to do was run their Queens. At the two subsequent meetings of the committee, all organizations running Queens were invited and were present.

Trust this letter will set at rest any doubt as to the fairness of the competition.

The Elks Carnival Committee wish to thank all who helped to make the carnival a success. To Mrs. French, Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. Morgan for continuing the Queens so perfectly. To the judges in their difficult task of awarding the prizes, and to the organizations who ran Queens for splendid work in raising such a magnificent sum by the sale of votes.

Yours very truly,
T. GATENBY,
Chairman Carnival Committee.

DALEMEAD

A largely attended meeting of the U.F.A. was held last Friday afternoon in the Community Hall, Harbort Park, filling the chair. After the general business, Mr. Young, yard manager of the Alberta Livestock Producers, Edmonton branch, was called upon, and for a while addressed the members on the Livestock Pool. Mr. A. Botsford, of Langford, was also present, and in an effective way urged upon the local to back the Agricultural Fair Association. Discussion will, in all probability, line up again. It is something which might well be enthusiastically supported.

The Social Club held its first round of the pool tournament last Saturday evening. About twenty-five turned out, and from reports, a lively competition will be created.

In a well planned address, Charlie Hornstra spoke to the Dalemead High School students last Friday afternoon on "Canadian Literature." Dealing principally with writers of the Confederation period, and of the Canadian school. He also stressed the important place they had in fostering a national consciousness, and in inspiring their countrymen to aspire to a true and lasting destiny. After the address, which was listened to with the closest attention, the school was given an opportunity to offer their criticisms, greatly increasing the interest and value of this slight change from the general week routine.

The Junior U.F.A. held a committee meeting last week for their St. Patrick's social. The Juniors are going to put it over big this time.

Rosie, in the opinion of the would-be groom, should be prepared to wash all the dishes, have all the meat ready on time, should not walk the streets at night and avoid looking at other men. There were other rules, less important.

A. Woods, superintendent of the Calgary branch of the board. The sixteen field super-visors from whose reports this information was compiled have reported consistently generally to be very satisfactory among these new settlers.

ROCKYFORD UNITED CHURCH NEWS

A very interesting time was spent in the basement of the United Church on Friday evening, February 24th. A supper had been laid for the men of the congregation by the Ladies Aid, and this was enjoyed by all those present.

After the supper, Rev. A. D. Richard of Calgary, who is Judge of the Juvenile Court there, gave the gathering a talk arising out of his experiences in the court, and a few of his findings regarding the problem of boy life that made all listen with great attention. It was a treat, and when the question of the advisability of organizing a brotherhood arose, this possibility of helping the young people, presented a real opportunity to the men, and the response was pretty general that we could get a chapter of the Beaver Brotherhood started in Rockyford. A committee was appointed to carry on the work of canvass and organization and call the men together for elections and other matters of business at the earliest opportunity. Mr. Richard's visit was indeed a real treat, and sometime it may be worth while to have him return to speak further on the same line to a more general gathering.

Coming—Yes, and we can speak well of the man—he knows how to entertain an audience—Rev. H. Arthur Barton. Mr. Barton will give an entertainment under the auspices of the Rockyford Young People's Society in the Hall on Wednesday, March 7th, at 8:30 p.m. His subject will be "Love, Woman and Wedlock". Wherever Mr. Barton has given his entertainments the audience have been captivated by his art and his skill in arranging the matters he had announced for discussion.

HEARD ON THE STREET

That sign of Spring are at hand, Tony Grogan has been given genuine takeable evidence. The old gentleman toddles around taking his orders for "ginger ale" and reciting as he goes, the following little ditty, which he seems a little shy about claiming that it is his own, and it is hoped that he stole it:

A yard of silk, a yard of lace,
A wisp of tulle to give it grace;
A flower placed where flowers grow,
The skirt line high the backwater low,
One shoulder strap, no sign of sleeve—
If she should cough, good morning Eve.

"You mean to say you aren't going to the flower show?"
"I can't do it on account of Fluffy. The last time he saw caryatids he barked himself sick."

"Did you have a large evening last night, Janet?"
"Well, it varied. Big party, little roadhouse, short argument, and a long walk home."

Robinson: "I met my wife in a very funny way—I ran over her in my car, and later married her."
Brown: "If everybody had to do that there wouldn't be so much reckless driving."

Mother: "Now, Jack had scarcely hid himself in the castle before a great voice boomed out, 'Pee, lo, lo, turn, I smell the blood of an Englishman.' And what do you suppose it was?"

The Kiddies (in chorus): "The mayor of Chicago."

A well-known woman is a famous Mrs. Malaprop as regards her speech. "And what, in France?" asked a friend, "did you enjoy the most, Mrs. —?"

"What," I think, said the lady, "it was the French pheasants singing the Maymornale."

Teacher: "Vincent, what is one-half of one tenth?"
Vincent: "I don't know exactly, teacher, but it can't be very much."

George: "What do they mean by the 'witching hour'?"
Ted: "Don't you know? That's the hour when the wife greets you with, 'Which story is it this time?'"

Inspector: "That new man will never make a detective."
Chief: "How is that?"

Inspector: "There was a supposed box of soap stolen from a railroad car, and he arrested a tramp."

"As I really hadn't a centime to wear, mother gave me ten dollars to buy some."

"Yes, and so?"
"So I bought a hat."

"Well, who was waiting the long?" asked the physician cheerily as he opened the door of his consultation office. "I think I have doctor," said a tailor arising and presenting a bill. "I delivered your clothes three years ago."

A western lawyer entered a condemned client's cell. "Well," he said cheerfully, "good news at last."

"A reprieve?" exclaimed the prisoner, eagerly.

"No, but your uncle has died, leaving you $5,000, and you can so your life with the satisfying feeling that the noble efforts of your lawyer will not go unrewarded."

Scotty: "Gle me two-bits worth of poison."

Remall Rod: "We can't make up two-bits worth of poison."

Scotty (after deep thought): "Aw well, I'll be contented with that."

Patrick Maginall got a job on the railway. He was allowed to travel to his work every morning by an express train which obligingly slowed down sufficiently for him to drop off safely.

But one morning the engineer forgot, and the train dashed through the cutting where the gang was at work.

The foreman thought he would have to do without Pat for the next few hours, but, presently, to his surprise, a battered-looking figure approached him and reported himself as Pat.

"Goodness, man," cried the foreman, "and where did you get off?"

Pat turned stiffly, and pointed with one trembling hand to the grassy bank, as he sighed:

"All along there, sort"

Sawed Off: "Say kid, you will yer plus fours and me wit' my wide pants—dem collich fellows ain't got nuttin on us."

"My wife is very pretty. She made me a tie out of her old dress."

"And my wife made herself a dress out of one of my ties."

"Poor boy," remarked the woman visitor to the wounded soldier in the hospital. "You must have been through some pretty tight squeezes."

"Well, ma'am," he replied blushing uncomfortably, "the nurses here have been pretty good to me."

Mary had a little lamb.
One day she clipped its tresses,
And found she had sufficient wool for fifteen modern dresses.

Jim Gannon: "Biologically speaking, what is the difference between a sparrow and a swallow?"

Ernie Whitehead: "Biologically speaking, I don't know, but if you've got anything on your hip, I can show you what a swallow is!"

He: "Didn't I see you taking a tramp yesterday?"
She: "The idea! That was my father."

A man collapsed on the street corner and the usual throng had gathered.

"Give him a shot of whiskey!" yelled two or three voices. Just then Sandy McPherson strode up. Give him M'Pherson's Sander.

Bill Tierney: "Oh, did you slip on that banana peel?"
Pat Ladd: "No, Mr. Fresh. I just sat down for a while to rest."

A DEPARTMENT AT WORK OR SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO WOMEN IN ALBERTA

By Miss J. MacMillan

Much has been written and said about the natural endowments of Alberta, of its educational advantages, of its latent possibilities but none of these gathered together, can make a great United Canada without vision, idealism and spiritual development.

History shows that in teaching, men have in the main, been the vehicle used for the making, declamation and propagation of creeds, and dogmas, but women have been the force who have put these into practice.

In Alberta this fact has been recognized, and we are endeavoring in the work of the Department of Agriculture to give our women every opportunity of development, in whatever way the individual finds most helpful.

To the work and activities of women in Alberta, there is no limit. You may go to the most isolated districts and find people who are wealthy in love, individuality, and the alk of human kindness. Those who have come from many lands, speak many languages and have had training in the most famous Universities and centers of the Old Lands, as well as in those of Canada. All have brought with them, a "Fifth University" as Barrie calls it, "The Home," and Alberta has many Universities of this kind from which spring the finest type of service.

The work of the Women's Branch in the Department of Agriculture is based on broad lines. It is non-sectarian and non-partisan, and organizations asking for short courses in the domestic science and arts, must be actively engaged in community work.

The United Farm Women of Alberta, The Women's Institutes, and community clubs put on short courses through their local organizations.

These courses deal with Household Administration, under the following headings: health, food and its preparation, sewing, millinery, basketry and radio work, and what we might call the by-products of these industries.

For the purpose of encouraging interest in what is called the more cultural side of life, the branch has a library. Here is assembled material dealing with practical subjects intimately connected and bound up with our every day life, up-to-date material on current events and on subjects both National and International. Books from the shelves are supplied, and material for the preparation of papers and debates. It also includes circulating libraries containing books of fiction, travel and biography. A great deal of assistance is also given to societies wishing to put on plays and concerts. Great interest is being shown in the subjects of music and dramatics.

There is a decided movement on foot to beautify the home, by studying the effect of colour, harmony and arrangement in structure and furnishing, to beautify the setting by planting trees and gardens.

Service, which includes sacrifice, brings out the finest in us, and the women of the Province are giving this in the welcoming of the new comers. Women's organizations have been given of their best to give the most of our newcomers are arriving, time is invaluable, and is being used to the utmost for preparation of the land and sowing of the seed, so that we may have a harvest.

Withstanding our men and women have given of their best to give the human touch which means so much to those coming to a new country, and an entirely different atmosphere, the essential, almost intangible and elusive quantity that cannot be expressed in words or symbols, but is one of the fundamental principles in the guidance of life.

As immigration is a subject of vital importance, I am going to give you a more detailed account of this work. A Provincial Committee was formed in 1924 with representative from the Women's Branch of the United Farm Women of Alberta, the Women's Institute, the Local Council of Women along with a press and Government representative. When the Committee got into working order, it asked the organizations being represented on the Provincial Committee to form a local committee in all districts of the Province. These district committees to be composed of women who knew the homes of the districts and who could advise as to the suitability of these for the reception of boys and girls or women seeking domestic employment. The objects of the committees were to have in view were and still are the welcoming of newcomers, more especially married women, and their families and girls coming here to take up domestic work for or for other reasons. The Committee does not try to induce people to come to Canada, nor does it undertake propaganda work for this purpose. The Committee does not ask organizations to undertake any financial responsibility for these people. What they do want is that so far as it lies in the power of your local committee, no woman who comes into your district and be left to herself so that she is very lonely and homesick, and therefore cannot in such an atmosphere make a good start herself or encourage those around her to be contented and happy and to make the best of things until they have been enabled to adapt themselves to new surroundings and conditions.

In the working out of the objects of the Provincial and district committees, we have not been disappointed. In some cases gardens have been planted before arrival of newcomers, homes have been cleaned, lampers of food prepared, and many other things done of a practical nature. The people have been met at the station, and in some cases taken to a future neighbour's home until things could be arranged. In other cases fire have been lighted, and some temporary provision made for the comfort of those being worked for. Helps of various kinds too numerous to mention, have been generously offered. In a good many cases neighbours have taught the women to bake bread, to can fruit and vegetables, to adapt themselves to new methods and usages which have been found practical in their district.

I cannot close this statement in any more appropriate words than the quotation from "Death Comes for the Archbishop," by Willa Cather, as they express the spirit that we are all endeavoring to foster.

"Where there is great love there are always miracles," he said at great length. "One might almost say that an aspiration is human vision corrected by divine love. I do not see you as you really are, Joseph; I see you through my affection for you. The Miracles of the Church occur to me to rest not so much upon facts or voices or healing power coming suddenly near to us from afar off, but upon our perceptions being made finer, so that for a moment our eyes can see and our ears can hear what is there about us not."

IS STATE MEDICINE COMING?

EDMONTON—Investigation of the principle of state medicine, or the giving of medical aid by doctors employed by the government and paid from the proceeds of a tax levied upon the people as a whole, was advocated by Fred White, Calgary, leader of the Labor group, in a resolution presented to the legislature.

The doctors would operate on a salary basis, or on a basis of so much per patient per day for year. The salaries would be paid by the government and it was felt by this means that much would be done to prevent disease.

Mr. White urged that the agricultural committee of the house take up the inquiry at the present session, and that representatives from the Alberta Medical Association and such other organizations or persons as was thought advisable, be invited.

System Explained

In explaining his resolution to the Bulletin, Mr. White said that the subject of state medicine was receiving much consideration in other provinces and in some states of the union to the south. The success of the traveling clinic in this province has raised the question here, and as a result he deemed it advisable to have the whole matter probed on much the same basis as the inquiries into revenue and taxation and workmen's compensation during the last year.

There had been some objections to the traveling clinic on the part of medical men on the fact that it took business away from them but then there was the counterargument that state medicine would do much to prevent disease and doctors, employed on a salary basis, would be able to devote their best hours to the patients, regardless of whether that patient was able to afford payment of heavy bills.

As a result Mr. White thought that as the matter was bound to receive increasing attention, and that this province should be in the forefront as it had been in other matters of public health.

WHAT ABOUT THE ROLLER AS A ROADMAKER?

To the Editor of the Advocate

I have been reading several letters re wide designs to make a trail for cars. Now I have never in all the letters that I have read seen the roller mentioned as a road-maker. Now, in districts in Eastern Canada, where they do a lot of heavy hauling, they use a wooden roller, about four feet high and twelve feet wide, that makes a road the full width as level as a floor, and one team of horses can haul it any place, and it does not wear any banks on either side to collect the next little storm.

If you think this would be of any benefit to the people that are trying to solve the winter road problem, you might pass it on through your paper.

THE COST OF TAR SAND SURFACING

The Good Roads Magazine has the following interesting article on road building:

Recently at the annual convention of the United Farmers of Alberta, in Calgary, the Minister of Public Works, Hon. O. L. McPherson, when speaking on the subject of better roads, told an audience that surfacing of Alberta highways with tar sands from Fort McMurray was one of the questions for many years to come, primarily due to the high cost of such work. He quoted a figure of $20,000 a mile for the surfacing with natural asphaltic material.

Exception to such a statement is quite naturally taken by residents of Fort McMurray, where sufficient tar and deposits are available to coat the entire province with a substantial layer of hard surfacing. Walter H. Illi, secretary of the board of trade at McMurray, in a letter of protest against the attitude of the Alberta Government as expressed by Mr. McPherson, maintains that proven figures show that tar sand surfacing can be laid, and well laid, at a price of $1.00 per square yard, or less than $10,000 per mile on a road 16 feet in width.

The controversy is not by means confined to Mr. McPherson and Mr. Illi. Practically all the better roads advocates in the province are concerned in the matter. For many years much hopeful stress has been placed by Albertans on the asphaltic deposits of the north, and experiments have been conducted along many lines to establish the worth of this material as the ultimate solution of the road surfacing problem in the province.

Last season a gravel driveway at the government buildings which the window of Mr. McPherson's office overlooks a comparatively limited test was carried out with tar sands surfacing at the behest of the government. This experiment was conducted by Mr. Thomas Dehor, pioneer in the development of McMurray resources and head of a large paving enterprise at Port Huron, Michigan. While no official figures were given out at the conclusion of this test by the public, it is known that the actual surfacing cost was considerably under $1.00 per square yard, and experts as well as the average road user will agree that the completed driveway was first-class in every detail.

Obviously this cost average could not be maintained on general highway construction. But those conversant with the situation and with the handling and transportation of the tar sands, have not hesitated to estimate that substantial surfacing of a gravelled highway such as the Edmonton-Calgary Trail, could be carried out at a figure under $12,000 per mile. The same material was transported from McMurray last summer to Jasper Park and laid at a price of $15.4 per square yard, federal park officials state.

Forgetting for the time being any wrangles between responsible government officials and citizens of McMurray over the question of construction costs, the fact that Alberta cannot hope to develop properly in the next few years without inaugurating a system of paved main highways, must be faced by administrative authorities as well as tax payers in general. Gravelled roads will not meet with heavy traffic demands without costing more in the end than permanent roadways.

The time is certainly overdue for a really practical test to see what a sagacious stretch of paved road would cost, where northern tar sands are used for surfacing. It should be a practical matter to discover whether the cost in $10,000 or $20,000 a mile

MODERATE CRITICISM MEANS NEW TACTICS

OTTAWA—The most interesting and possibly the most important feature of Parliament to date this session is not the items of heretofore legislation for not much is heralded, but something more subtle and observable only to one who has watched Parliament day in and day out during the last three sessions. And that something is the new front, or the new strategy of the Conservative opposition under Hon. Richard B. Bennett.

For two sessions previous to this under the Right Hon. Arthur Meighen the Conservative Opposition fought the Government at every turn, and upon practically every issue. A speech from the Leader of the official Opposition inevitably was a heated oration calculated to smother the Government under a deluge of its own shortcomings. There was an eagerness to come to grips on everything, and a note of bitterness from the Conservative front benches.

Hon. R. B. Bennett has far at least—the official Opposition speaker has abandoned its previous disposition to oppose almost everything. With all his undoubted powers of biting, slashing criticism, the new Conservative Leader's utterances to date have been moderately toned and moderately worded, and he seems equally willing to pass compliment or criticism across the green carpet which separates him from the Treasury benches. He did not think much of the speech from the Throne and he said so, but he added nothing that left a scar.

In other words, in the best judgment of the professional Parliamentary observers, under Mr. Bennett, the Conservative party has made a studied change of tactics. It is no longer apparently in a position ready to fight at the drop of the hat, but an opposition determined to observe every Parliamentary anomaly and preserve its fighting power for what its Leader deems to be the bigger, wiser, wiles.

One feels, as we watch Mr. Bennett day in and day out, and recall his occasional fighting powers, that some day, on some issue, that reliable, smiling gentleman in the Conservative front benches, who is always smiling with Premier King and J.B. and Cabinet Ministers, is going to cut loose on a Parliamentary engagement which will make the country stop and listen. It will be the more impressive because of contrast. And that, probably, is what the new Leader has in mind.

THE SAYINGS AND DOINGS OF MAN OF PUBLIC MEN

When Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, not present anything much more than a secretary of state for dominion affairs may be severely questioned by certain Conservative members as to whether authority he had to speak for the British government in advocating an inter-imperial tariff preference for Canada, according to the Daily News.

Agnes Macphail (Progressive, Southern, Gray) characterized the Government's speech from the Throne as an adroit and clever effort at "saying nothing at all." She was another Progressive member who disagreed with the Government's analysis of widespread prosperity. While she admitted improvement in economic conditions in rural Ontario, she declared that not one rural Ontario home in ten contained modern conveniences. And in the West, she and people were pursued by debt, taxes and mortgages.

She, too, voiced the alleged demand of the agricultural folk for reduction in the tariff, and retorted the Government with its ability last year to evade the issue adding: "There is no real reason for the Government's getting out of it this year, although I am sure, if there were, the Government would find it."

The Right Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, British Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs, stated that the inauguration of an All-Canada air line would come in the course of three or four years and that Edmonton would be a main depot. He said that he spent some time at Brooks, visiting the Experimental Farm of the Canadian Pacific Railway and admiring its extensive irrigation scheme.

J. W. Dainton, of the Winnipeg Free Press asks what is the outlook of the Canadian people toward farm life, and this applies especially to Canadians of Anglo-Saxon stock. Settlers from Great Europe are glad to get a piece of land in Canada; the Scandinavian has a sound appreciation of the benefits of owning and working a farmstead, whether it be in the country or prairie land. The French-Canadian has the pioneering spirit and the land-holding instinct. He stays with his farm in Quebec and is pushing westward and northward in Ontario, buying land, colonizing, settling his roots down in the soil. He is a permanent settler in many of the newer districts in Northern Ontario and his settlements are following the transcontinental railway westward.

It is the Canadian Anglo-Saxon stock who are losing the land-owning instinct; his sons and daughters are lured away from the farm. Many of those bred in the country are bound to leave the land, still the country is not so much depopulated as whole districts are gradually passing from the control of the early Canadian stock. Economies have something to do with it, but not all. There is something lacking in the spirit and in the outlook. Canadians should look on the soil of their country as a sacred trust, not to be given lightly. The young Canadian should be taught to look more toward the country and less toward the city; he should get it into his blood that it is a fine thing to own and work a piece of land. It is quite evident that this element is lacking in our national life. Every agency in the country should be put to work to rectify it.

Derority Dix thinks that nothing really is more touching than to watch a mother glowering over a scrawny little baby with a snub nose and pink eyes and no hair as if it were Ripley's cherub, or to hear her repeating the commonplace utterances of a mother as if it were a paragon of wit and cleverness.

"We are thankful for small mercies in the reduction of the personal and income tax," said Sir John Aird, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce. "I have not laid out my time to digest the changes in the tariff and would not care to express opinions on them until I know just what they mean."

"The proper way to tax is on the business turnover," Sir John Aird said. "The turnover tax is the most equitable. You can get as much or as little as you like, and everybody would have to pay. Nobody would be able to escape."

J. B. Norris, Vice-president of Montreal Light, Heat and Power Commission, commenting on the new budget tax provision, said:

"The new rate of income taxation on corporations, although it does not mean much as a reduction and does not present anything much more than an easier figure for calculation, is reasonable, enough under the present fiscal conditions of Canada."

"But there is much cause for genuine disappointment that the government should not have recognized the representations made on behalf of the citizens of this province, and the city of Montreal particularly, for an equalization in application of the tax which they, as customers of privately-owned utilities, have to pay in their rates for electricity while the consumer in other parts of Canada, where public ownership prevails are free from this tax in their rates for electricity."

In the House of Commons Mr. Woodworth asked:

1. What proportion of His Majesty's mails are transported over the Canadian National railways?

2. What amount was paid last year to the Canadian National railways, and what amount to the Canadian Pacific railway for the transportation of the mails?

Mr. Veniot, Post Master General, answered:

1 and 2. Expenditures on account of the railway mail services, the whole of Canada for fiscal year, 1926-27:

C. P. R.	$3,670,390.49
C. N. R.	2,100,000.41
Other railways	494,467.17
Total	$7,264,858.07

The above figures represent approximately the percentage of mails carried by the different railways.

In every case the department has been governed by the requirements of the postal service in the territory served by the railway, but wherever it is possible, preference is given to the National railways in the carriage of the mails and the establishment of new services.

Mr. Adheard said: "I listened with interest to the hon. member for Frontenac. I expected the Minister of Agriculture would rise in his seat and offer some defence. I think I said last year, and I repeat it again this year, that we can compete with the hares and hunt with the hounds. That is, if you believe in low tariff or even free trade, you cannot say 'I want free trade in those things which I buy and protection in the things which I sell'."

Mr. Adheard was replying to an address by J. W. Edwards, M.P. upon the Australian Bait problem.

Edgar R. Waite writes that the public schools of the world are the place where world history is being shaped, because the boys and girls who are being educated there will, in years to come, be more important than kings or presidents, for they will be the citizens of the future. That power will be theirs, because since the World War, suffrage has become almost universal.

It is a sad mistake to suppose that the boys and girls now in our schools, who will be the citizens of the future, will determine the character of our states, our cities, and our local communities.

Facing this fact, it is important that we give our schools the most liberal support possible, that we back the faithful teachers in their work and that we encourage and direct our children to make the most of the wonderful opportunities for education provided by the modern public school system.

Every community should cooperate in making its schools not merely a potential asset, but a realized effective asset.

Mr. B. Adheard, member for East Calgary, said the King's speech was somewhat disappointing. It was colorless, said Mr. Waite, and it looked like a peg to hang something on. The mover of the address in reply said: "I have not laid out my time to digest the changes in the tariff and would not care to express opinions on them until I know just what they mean."

The above figures represent approximately the percentage of mails carried by the different railways.

In every case the department has been governed by the requirements of the postal service in the territory served by the railway, but wherever it is possible, preference is given to the National railways in the carriage of the mails and the establishment of new services.

Mr. Adheard said: "I listened with interest to the hon. member for Frontenac. I expected the Minister of Agriculture would rise in his seat and offer some defence. I think I said last year, and I repeat it again this year, that we can compete with the hares and hunt with the hounds. That is, if you believe in low tariff or even free trade, you cannot say 'I want free trade in those things which I buy and protection in the things which I sell'."

Mr. Adheard was replying to an address by J. W. Edwards, M.P. upon the Australian Bait problem.

Edgar R. Waite writes that the public schools of the world are the place where world history is being shaped, because the boys and girls who are being educated there will, in years to come, be more important than kings or presidents, for they will be the citizens of the future. That power will be theirs, because since the World War, suffrage has become almost universal.

It is a sad mistake to suppose that the boys and girls now in our schools, who will be the citizens of the future, will determine the character of our states, our cities, and our local communities.

Facing this fact, it is important that we give our schools the most liberal support possible, that we back the faithful teachers in their work and that we encourage and direct our children to make the most of the wonderful opportunities for education provided by the modern public school system.

Every community should cooperate in making its schools not merely a potential asset, but a realized effective asset.

Mr. B. Adheard, member for East Calgary, said the King's speech was somewhat disappointing. It was colorless, said Mr. Waite, and it looked like a peg to hang something on. The mover of the address in reply said: "I have not laid out my time to digest the changes in the tariff and would not care to express opinions on them until I know just what they mean."

"The proper way to tax is on the business turnover," Sir John Aird said. "The turnover tax is the most equitable. You can get as much or as little as you like, and everybody would have to pay. Nobody would be able to escape."

J. B. Norris, Vice-president of Montreal Light, Heat and Power Commission, commenting on the new budget tax provision, said:

"The new rate of income taxation on corporations, although it does not mean much as a reduction and does not present anything much more than an easier figure for calculation, is reasonable, enough under the present fiscal conditions of Canada."

"But there is much cause for genuine disappointment that the government should not have recognized the representations made on behalf of the citizens of this province, and the city of Montreal particularly, for an equalization in application of the tax which they, as customers of privately-owned utilities, have to pay in their rates for electricity while the consumer in other parts of Canada, where public ownership prevails are free from this tax in their rates for electricity."

In the House of Commons Mr. Woodworth asked:

1. What proportion of His Majesty's mails are transported over the Canadian National railways?

2. What amount was paid last year to the Canadian National railways, and what amount to the Canadian Pacific railway for the transportation of the mails?

Mr. Veniot, Post Master General, answered:

1 and 2. Expenditures on account of the railway mail services, the whole of Canada for fiscal year, 1926-27:

C. P. R.	$3,670,390.49
C. N. R.	2,100,000.41
Other railways	494,467.17
Total	$7,264,858.07

HORRORS OF FUTURE WARFARE FORETOLD

— OXFORD—Despite the Washington Conference, poisonous gases will be used in the next great war, according to the prediction of General E. B. Swinton, inventor of the tank, made in an address here.
"When the next great struggle comes," he said, "the belligerent nations will not have any scruples regarding treaties. They will consider them mere scraps of paper and enter the war without even a formal declaration of hostilities."

General Swinton said that the war of the future would be between people and people, not army and army, and it would actually be safer for the fighting men than civilians. There would be no mercy to women and children, but this would help to shorten the period of conflict.
The next war would mean the employment of disease germs, aeroplanes without aviators sowing pestilence and chemicals to destroy crops. Field warfare would be carried on in machines impervious to gas and machine gun bullets.
